

INFORMATION SHEET

on awards for art project spaces and initiatives in the area of visual arts for 2022

Target group

The funding program is aimed both at project spaces as free, self-initiated venues for presentation and production and at non-site-based initiatives working in the area of visual arts. Legal and natural persons (individuals, associations, artist groups, etc.) are eligible to apply.

The project spaces or initiatives should be based and active in Berlin, have their own publicly accessible programming, and be used for presentation, production, development, and research.

Purpose/Objectives of the awards

Berlin's Senate Department for Culture and Europe is bestowing the awards to honor the multiyear commitment shown so far and/or outstanding programming by those who run project spaces or initiatives.

The awards will be presented to project spaces and initiatives that

- Have a track record of outstanding programming over several years in Berlin's project space scene
- Are spaces/initiatives whose programming showcases interdisciplinary, multigenre, and/or innovative curatorial or artistic approaches, and/or
- Are spaces/initiatives whose conceptual approach stakes out a new position in the project space scene

Prerequisites/Conditions

All project spaces and initiatives that are part of the target group described above are eligible to apply, provided they satisfy the following conditions:

- They have existed for at least two years (retroactively from the beginning of the call for applications).
- They can demonstrate that the space or initiative has been continuously active in Berlin in curatorial or artistic work. The jury is requested to take into consideration the limited opportunities for presentation and work since February 2020 due to the coronavirus pandemic!
- They are based in Berlin, and their main activities take place in Berlin (in the case of initiatives, the majority of the group's members must have their primary residence in Berlin).
- Their project space/their initiative does not take a market-oriented, profit-seeking approach.
- They offer space for third-party projects, discourses, and activities in an artistic context.

Exclusion

Members of the jury and staff members of the Senate Department for Culture and Europe, as well as their families, are not eligible to apply. Jury members must abstain from voting in cases in which they may be biased.

Prize money

Prize money will be awarded in two categories:

- Three prizes of €20,000 each
- Four prizes of €10,000 each

The seven prizes (and the category) will be awarded on the recommendation of an independent jury.

Award ceremony

The award ceremony is scheduled to take place during the 2022 Berlin Art Week. If circumstances permit, the successful applicants are expected to organize an exhibition, an event, or a project presentation that will take place in their/a project space during this time.

How awards are allocated/Allocation procedure

Award winners are selected on the recommendation of an independent jury.

In 2022, the jury includes:

Tomke Braun, independent curator/Creamcake/former curator Kunstverein Göttingen

Nuray Demir, artist/curator/District * Schule ohne Zentrum

Alexander Koch, art theorist/art mediator/curator/Galerie KOW

Arkadij Koscheew, cultural scholar/curator (among others, N.B.K.)

Sylvia Sadzinski, curator/cultural scholar/alpha nova & galerie futura

Decisions will be based on the artistic/curatorial merit and discourse quality of the project spaces and initiatives. These should be reflected in outstanding and continuous programming over at least the last two years; in addition, the project space or initiative should occupy a special position in Berlin's project space scene.

All applicants will be notified by email of the outcome of the jury's deliberations. The names of the award winners and the amount of prize money allocated will be published.
